Iron

“This human blood — which is in truth not such a material thing as present-day science imagines, but is permeated throughout by impulses from soul and spirit — is rayed through by the force which is carried as Iron into the blood and wages war there on anxiety, fear and hate....This permeation of human blood by the anxiety-dispelling force of Iron is a meteoric activity. The effect of the raying in of the Iron is to drive fear and anxiety out of the blood.” – Rudolf Steiner

Most people would agree that we have seen a pandemic of fear and terror sweep across the entire world. It is well known that EMF radiation affects the blood and the Iron within it.

Could this and certain nano particles that react to electromagnetic frequencies, found within peoples bodies, be contributing to some of the psychological affects that we are seeing and be a contributory factor to the set of symptoms referred to as Sars-Cov-2?

–Independent Science on the Effect of Wireless Radiation on Human Health–

Rather than looking for a single explanation for the health problems we are seeing in both the injected and un-injected, and the likely explosion of chronic disease in the coming years, could we have three potential factors (as well as general environmental toxicity) at play? Changes in the frequency and intensity of electromagnetic radiation both on the ground and in the atmosphere, a digitally produced bio weapon hidden within a viral delivery system that can more easily take root when the body/mind system is weakened and mRNA/DNA injections that are producing countless side effects and other phenomenon in people that cannot be easily explained. Could all of these factors have the common thread of affecting the blood? This article hopes to look at the possible consequences of the corruption of this very special fluid.

* based upon the evidence this cannot be ruled out and should be held as a possibility. (See Covid 19 Injection)

There is a most concerning development relating to the blood and by consequence the Iron within it. However hard it is to believe we have to consider that the reports about magnets sticking to Covid 19 injection sites are real, especially given the large number of scientific papers that outline technology that could potentially, if used, cause magnetic affects. The author of this article has witnessed the phenomenon first hand.

–Study On Electromagnetism Of Vaccinated Persons In Luxembourg–

“...I’m afraid I at first disregarded the reports of people becoming magnetic on the grounds that it seemed impossible. I’m wrong. I lack an explanation and an understanding. A systemic survey was just undertaken in Luxembourg. 30 vaccinated & 30 unvaccinated agreed to be surveyed & nine in no cases did a small magnet stick to them. But most vaccinated it did stick.

Read the brief report yourself. People were horrified as am I. It’s inconceivable. I can’t explain it. Obviously they have been injected with something that leaves living humans paramagnetic, contrary to all experience.” – Mike Yaedon Vice President and Chief Scientist in a Drug Discovery Research Unit at Pfizer

“–NA–MNPs (magnetic nano particles) Self-Assembly– DNA is considered as a core genetic biological molecule in living systems. Although DNA molecules are composed of simple units, different deoxynucleotide chains and flexible conformations can be achieved through precise design and organization, which can be programmed. In other words, this is the nature of DNA self-assembly. For example, Ma et al. introduced DNA-modified MNPs, Y-scaffolds, and DNA linkers into the framework of DNA hydrogels to construct magnetic controllable DNA hydrogels.”

Darpa are currently funding a number of projects to develop computer brain interfaces. Battelle Memorial Institute are working on Brain STORMS (Brain System to Transmit Or Receive Magnetolectric Signals)

“The nanotransducer would use magnetolectric nanoparticles to establish a bi-directional communication channel with the brain. Neurons in the brain operate through electrical signals. The magnetic core of the nanotransducers would convert the neural electrical signals into magnetic ones that would be sent through the skull to the helmet-based transceiver worn by the user. The helmet transceiver could also send magnetic signals back to the nanotransducers where they would be converted to electrical impulses capable of being processed by the neurons, enabling two-way communication to and from the brain.” – Magnetism Plays Key Roles in DARPA Research to Develop Brain-Machine Interface without Surgery

Another Darpa funded CBI project called MOANA (Magnetic, Optical, and Acoustic Neural Access) is led by Rice University.

“In Phase 1, the team identified a genetically targeted magnetic stimulation technology that can achieve cell-type specific stimulation with a spatial resolution defined by the distribution of genetically modified cells (< 1mm) and with a temporal resolution approaching 10 ms. Among other accomplishments in Phase 1, were efforts in write technology that achieved targeted and non-invasive delivery of viruses in mice, demonstrating fast magnetic stimulation in mammalian cells; also in viral delivery using magnetic Iron oxide nanocrystal clusters of core/shell with high magnetic heating efficiency and magnetothermal multiplexing

In Phase 2, the team aims to advance its work further toward the goal of reaching demonstration in humans in Phase 3. Among the goals for Phase 3 are to accomplish non-surgical reads, writes with magnetogenetics, and to demonstrate closed-loop brain-to-brain MOANA link in humans.” – Magnetism Plays Key Roles in DARPA Research to Develop Brain-Machine Interface without Surgery

There is also considerable evidence that the bodies of people who have not received the injections are also showing magnetic anomalies. Going back many years there have been people who claim to be magnetic. If this is a real phenomenon then it does show that the human body is capable of having this potentially.

–Examples 1 2 3–

–Magnetic Man–

The measurable electric field that the body produces is incredibly small and the magnetic field even smaller. An energetic change in the bio-field could be a more plausible explanation, caused by technological developments that are not widely understood. Nano scale particulates found in the environment that have not been cleared from the body due to poor liver function is worth considering as a possible cause. The changes to the delicate electromagnetic system of the earth caused by the huge increase in technological devices on earth and more importantly in the upper atmosphere should also not be underestimated. It is also quite possible that some or even all of the non-injected people showing magnetic like properties have always been magnetic but have only just found out due to testing themselves because of the ‘magnet challenge’ craze. The number of people that seem to be displaying these phenomenon though, suggests that something else is likely in play.

–Zack and Gwen and Magnetism–

It is not yet possible to know exactly what is causing this phenomenon. At the present time however, there is enough evidence to suggest that it could relate to some kind of self-assembling nano technology or to a technology that is not discussed in published papers that somehow effects the bio-field given that:

“A Covid-19 vaccine dose is less than a milliliter (mL), with a typical dose for the Pfizer/BioNTech vaccine being only about 0.3 mL. That’s not enough volume to squeeze in a typical microchip. Even if the entire injected volume were filled with a ferromagnetic metal, it probably wouldn’t be nearly enough to make your arm into a refrigerator door.” – Forbes Fact Check

Magnetic phenominon within the body will be affecting the Iron in the blood regardless of whether the Iron is directly used in some way or whether a secondary causal factor is responsible. We need to seriously consider what the physical and spiritual implications of what we are seeing might be.

"The relation of the etheric to the astral organism of man is bound up with the Iron-content of the blood." – Rudolf Steiner Anthroposophical Approach to Medicine, Lecture IV, October 28, 1922, GA 314

"The soul will be made non-existent with the aid of a drug. Taking a 'sound point of view', people will invent a vaccine to influence the organism as early as possible, preferably as soon as it is born, so that this human body never even gets the idea that there is a soul and a spirit." – Rudolf Steiner Fall of the Spirits of Darkness Lecture 5

"With such a vaccine, you can easily make the etheric body loose in the physical body. Once the etheric body is detached, the relationship between the universe and the etheric body would become extremely unstable, and man would become an automaton, for the physical body of man must be polished on this Earth by spiritual will." – Rudolf Steiner (Reference Unverified)

"You see, if you vaccinate someone who is an anthroposophist and has been anthroposophically trained, it does no harm. (alternative: You see, if you vaccinate someone who is an anthroposophist, or bring someone up anthroposophically, it does no harm.) It only harms those who grow up with predominantly materialistic thoughts. In this case, vaccination becomes a kind of Ahrimanic force; the person is no longer able to lift himself or herself out of certain materialistic feelings.

– Rudolf Steiner Physiologisch-Therapeutisches auf Grundlage der Geisteswissenschaft \(Rudolf Steiner Verlag, 1989\), 287-88

With regards to this last quote it should not be taken that a spiritually minded person is not affected by vaccines, rather that through inner work and the right forms of meditation much can be overcome, especially considering the massive difference between the vaccines used 100 years ago and current vaccines/mRNA/DNA manipulating technology.

Magnetogenetics and Magnetofection

"If scientists could give living cells magnetic properties, they could perhaps manipulate cellular activities with external magnetic fields... The new area of magnetogenetics seeks to use genetically encoded proteins that are sensitive to magnetic fields to study and manipulate cells. Many previous approaches have featured a natural Iron-storage protein called ferritin, which can self-assemble into a "cage" that holds as many as 4,500 Iron atoms. But even with this large Iron-storage capacity, ferritin cages in cells generate magnetic forces that are millions of times too small for practical applications. To drastically increase the amount of Iron that a protein assembly can store, Bianxiao Cui and colleagues wanted to combine the Iron-binding ability of ferritin with the self-assembly properties of another protein, called Inkabox-PAK4cat, that can form huge, spindle-shaped crystals inside cells. The researchers wondered if they could line the hollow interiors of the crystals with ferritin proteins to store larger amounts of Iron that would generate substantial magnetic forces.” – Engineered protein crystals make cells magnetic

Like optogenetics (see Covid 19 Injection) magnetogenetics uses a combination of genetic manipulation and external stimuli to achieve control of biological and neuronal processes.

“Researchers in the United States have developed a new method for controlling the brain circuits associated with complex animal behaviours, using genetic engineering to create a magnetised protein that activates specific groups of nerve cells from a distance...

...nerve cell proteins which are activated by heat and mechanical pressure can be genetically engineered so that they become sensitive to radio waves and magnetic fields, by attaching them to an Iron-storing protein called ferritin, or to inorganic paramagnetic particles...

...they used genetic engineering to fuse the protein to the paramagnetic region of ferritin, together with short DNA sequences that signal cells to transport proteins to the nerve cell membrane and insert them into it...

...the researchers inserted the Magneto DNA sequence into the genome of a virus, together with the gene encoding green fluorescent protein, and regulatory DNA sequences that cause the construct to be expressed only in specified types of neurons. They then injected the virus into the brains of mice...

In one final experiment, the researchers injected Magneto into the striatum of freely behaving mice, a deep brain structure containing dopamine-producing neurons that are involved in reward and motivation, and then placed the animals into an apparatus split into magnetised a non-magnetised sections. Mice expressing Magneto spent far more time in the magnetised areas than mice that did not, because activation of the protein caused the striatal neurons expressing it to release dopamine, so that the mice found being in those areas rewarding. This shows that Magneto can remotely control the firing of neurons deep within the brain, and also control complex behaviours.” – The Guardian Genetically engineered ‘Magneto’ protein remotely controls brain and behaviour

Material Occultism

“By means of this capacity – and this is precisely the ideal of British secret societies – certain social forms at present basic within the industrial system shall be set up on entirely different foundations. Every knowing member of these secret circles is aware that, solely by means of certain capacities that are still latent but evolving in man, and with the help of the law of syntonic oscillations, machines and mechanical constructions and other things can be set in motion. A small indication is to be found in what I connected with the person of Stader* in my Mystery Dramas.

These things are at present in process of development. They are guarded secrets within those secret circles in the field of material occultism. Motors can be set going, set in operation, by a very human influence if the corresponding curve of oscillation is known.” – Rudolf Steiner. ‘The Challenge of the Times’. The Anthroposophic Press, 1941.

Compound Disintegrator. An example of Keely's later work, referred to as material occultism.

*It should be noted that the idea shown by Stader machine was likely based upon a form of material occultism. However due to the social and technological developments that took place in the 20th century it is arguably no longer a suitable avenue of development, if the objective of such developments is to help humanity at large.

“Material occultism will remain extremely dangerous as long as mankind is not free from immorality.” – Paul Emberson. Antro-Tech News Spring 2004

John Worrell Keely's earlier motors used the force of sympathetic vibration, they were able to amplify moral impulses that he was able to generate in his etheric body – setting the machines in motion. This technology can be referred to as (moral) mechanical occultism. Keely abandoned this earlier technology because he was the only one who could set the machines in motion. For this reason he abandoned this first moral kind of technology and concentrated on technology using a force opposite to the one he had hitherto employed. He called this new force “negative attractive force”. It was also based upon the principle of sympathetic vibration, it was related to, but not the same as, modern electrical engineering with its use of alternating current. It was a more advanced form of electrical engineering. It can be referred to as material occultism.

We should not rule out the possibility that those brotherhoods who are well aware of both mechanical occultism and material occultism, have developed material occultism to the point that it could be used to further their aims of power and control. Could a form of this technology be responsible for the affects we are seeing and could it be used in the future to harness the energy within our bodies for data processing and the like? The seeds of doing this using overt science has already been planted in the minds of many.

Blood

As has been discussed and shown in the other articles on this site we are in spiritual battle, a battle for the human 'I'. If one wished to completely manipulate and control a human being something would need to be done to subvert the part of the human being that is the carrier of this quality, the blood, and the substance within it intimately connected with free will, Iron.

Blood Analysis of the Injected 1 2 3 4 (Unverified)

"The degree to which a child achieves free will relates to the absorption of Iron. This shows that Iron is necessary for freedom of will. – Rudolf Steiner Cosmic Workings in Earth and Man (in GA 351). Rudolf Steiner Lecture of Oct 27, 1923. Tr. V.E. Evans. London: Rudolf Steiner Publishing Co. 1952.

"Think of a baby: it kicks a lot and certainly dreams; but it has neither independent thought nor any free will in the real sense. In the measure that it attains freedom of will, its instincts call for Iron. Iron is really necessary for free will." – Rudolf Steiner Cosmic Workings In Earth and Man

“Iron mediates between the forces of life and consciousness. It permeates our entire organism. It appears in its most concentrated and mineralized form in the blood. It is always combined with protein. This Iron-protein structure appears in various forms, mediating between the dull life processes and the consciousness-awakening death processes. It mediates between sleeping and waking. Its true ‘home’ is thus in the rhythmic organism. It joins forces with the circulatory system. There, in human blood, it first exercises its healing function... The red blood corpuscles swim in the blood. By means of Iron, they receive the necessary weight and earthly heaviness. This is the physiological basis for the ensoulment of our bodies... ‘The Iron content is an important regulator of the activity of blood circulation – that is, of the interplay between the etheric and astral organisms of man’... Physical-chemical processes play into our blood, and ‘they are necessary in order for our Ego to participate in the physical world.’ This points to Iron – an inorganic, mineral, even crystalline element – in the erythrocytes.” – Gerhard Schmidt, The Essentials of Nutrition, Bio-dynamic Literature, Wyoming, USA, 1987. It is often said that we are playing checkers while the representatives of the adversarial powers are playing three-dimensional chess. It is much worse than that, we are playing checkers and they are working with understanding of the 14 spiritual levels that are shown on

the diagrams page and their inverted counterparts. We cannot afford to stay ignorant of spiritual matters any longer! Looking at scientific papers to explain the technological transformation of the human being only gives us part explanation as to what exactly is taking place. As I hope the reader is starting to glimpse, there are non-physical implications that can not be explained with the physically based sciences alone. Aspects of the technology we are seeing have quite specific spiritual affects on human beings. Just as there have been, and are, highly developed initiates who perceive, work with and make available knowledge of the non-physical words with the intention of helping humanity along its intended path, there are also those who follow a different path of initiation, one that can also lead to a certain perception and understanding of spiritual matters, however, instead of using this knowledge for humanities development they use it selfishly to gain knowledge that is used for power and control and to further the very specific goals of the adversarial powers. Once people are separated from the higher parts of themselves it will be all the easier to influence them, in such a way, as to force and trick them into enmeshing their intelligence within the very fabric of the smart contract based universal computer that the internet and World Wide Web are fast becoming.

"It may strike you, dear reader, that computers are not intelligent in this sense. That is the truth. Information processing is one thing, intelligence is quite another. What we call artificial intelligence today is not intelligence at all. Despite the hopes and dreams of Sir Tim Berners-Lee and his colleagues of the Word Wide Web Consortium, at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology's Laboratory for Computer Science, who still believe in the coming Semantic Web which will itself understand the information it handles, the digital electronics used in computer technology is simply incapable of doing that. Machines that work solely with the forces of death cannot think – they cannot partake in the living activity of thinking, but only deal with its end product: finished thoughts. Moral technology alone is capable of building machines endowed with a simple form of thinking. But Ahriman-Sorat will incorporate into electronics another kind of component that is indeed the bearer of intelligence: the human being himself. If men's heads are wired into computer systems by brain-to-microprocessor links or whatever, then the Cosmic Intelligence that was brought into man's head-organisation by the beings of the highest hierarchies – the Seraphim, Cherubim and Thrones – will thereby be directed into the electromagnetic fields and electronic circuitry of the Internet. There it can be controlled and misused by the Sun Demon. There it will become Satanic Intelligence. As a component of the Internet, the human organism will be irreparably damaged." – Paul Emberson Supersensible Researcher, 50 Years from Now \(written in 2009\)

As people transform their bodies with tranhumanist technology and ultimately connect themselves to the internet using computer brain interfaces their soul life will become bound to the internet. However hard it may be to do, it is imperative that we start to consider what effect this will have on people after they have died.

“Certain American occult brotherhoods were intent on diverting technical development from its proper course, by introducing techniques employing the polar duality of the positive and negative magnetic forces. These forces are connected with the constellation of Gemini. Their use would allow cosmic forces to work through the corresponding devices and systems in such a way that they could be placed wholly in the service of the Ahrimanic ‘double’ in man. This would enable the brotherhoods in question to take over Christ's sphere of influence and set in His place a being “that has never appeared in the flesh – an etheric individuality, but a strongly Ahrimanic one.” That Being is Sorat, the Antichrist. Those satanic brotherhoods – for that is what they are – would be assisted by their Oriental counterparts, who are determined to eliminate perception of the real Christ in the etheric realm. This they could achieve by bringing into technical application the other polar duality of positive and negative forces – those of electricity as it works in man’s animal nature – connected with the constellation of Sagittarius.

Tragically, the occult brotherhoods were victorious. Technology has effectively been thrown right off course. Instead of Moral Technology, which would have incorporated the beneficent forces of Pisces and Virgo it was its Ahrimanic counterpart that became reality: electronics. Electronics, in particular digital electronics, artificial intelligence has been placed in the service of the Ahrimanic double. The whole atmospheric sphere of our planet is saturated with the harsh square-wave radiation of digital radio, radar, television and Wi-Fi transmitters, which impress their vibration-patterns, by induction, onto the human nervous system, blanking out perception of Christ. Meanwhile the binary electronic operations of the individual computers, Internet and the World Wide Web draw living human souls down into the subnatural sphere of the Sorat, the great Sun Demon. If the development of technology had followed its normal path, none of this would have existed. But the occult brotherhoods have imposed their deviant technology on us. Steiner said that by means of this immensely evil technology, the souls of the dead would be forcibly introduced into artificially intelligent machines. Today’s regular gamers, whose souls are wed to their avatars during life*, will not experience a normal death. When the body dies, the soul will remain in the Earth-realm, in the electromagnetic fields, bound to the avatar in the data banks of the World Wide Web.” – Paul Emberson Supersensible Researcher, 50 Years from Now \(written in 2009\)

Here Paul is not implying that this will be the fate of anyone who plays computer games, he is referring to someone who is materialistically minded and who feels that their online Persona or Avatar to be more representative and of who they are than the person they are in the real world.

It is all too easy to separate the physical and spiritual in our minds when in reality there is no such division, the spiritual affects the physical and what we do in the physical world affects the spiritual. The spiritual essence of the human being is arguably much more valuable than someones body. Why just kill people if you can instead do so in such a way that furthers your dark and nefarious aims? The physical benefits obtained by certain parties in relation to the manipulation of society to amass wealth and power is clear to see, is it so hard to believe that people with such a mind set would not also wish to manipulate people spiritually after they have died for those and other objectives?

“So now let us assume that here is the realm of one of those brotherhoods [small circle, green]. This brotherhood is spreading the doctrine of materialism and ensuring that these human beings most probably think in a purely materialistic way. By this means the brotherhood succeeds in generating souls for itself that remain in the earthly sphere after death. They become the spiritual clientele, of this lodge [orange]. In other words, by this means dead souls have been created who do not go out off the earthly sphere but remain with the earth. By making the right arrangements they can be held within the lodge. So in this way lodges have been created which contain the living but also the dead, the dead who have become related to the earthly forces.

Matters are then directed by these people here who hold sessions or by means of arranging meetings like the spiritualist seances of the second half of the nineteenth century about which I have frequently spoken. It can then happen – and please take note of this – that what goes on here in the sessions is directed by the lodge with the help of the dead. But it is the intention of the masters in those lodges that the people must not know that they are dealing with the dead, for they are meant to believe that what they are dealing with are simply higher forces of nature. The intention is to show people that these are higher forces of nature, psychism and so on, merely higher forces of nature. The concept of the soul as such is taken away and the people are told: ‘Just as there is electricity, and magnetism, so are there similar higher forces.’ Those who lead the lodge hide the fact that these things are coming from souls. So those other, innocuous souls gradually become dependent, psychologically dependent, on the lodge without knowing what they are dependent on or where that which is directing them is coming from.

The only defence against these things is knowing about them. If you know about them you are protected. If you know about them in that you really regard them as true, that you really believe them to be like this, then you are protected. But you must not be idle about acquiring real knowledge about these things. For the present, however, it can still be said that it is not yet absolutely too late regarding this. These things can only be clarified gradually and I can only slowly gather together the various elements by which you can be given full clarity. – Rudolf Steiner Secret Brotherhoods and the Mystery of the Human Double P. 137

The following shines some light as to why an outright materialist can become Earth bound after death and as to what effect love for the sub material world of artificial reality might have.

“At the stage the world has now reached in human evolution we must acquire spiritual concepts if we want to detach from ourselves something we would otherwise carry within us only as though asleep. People find these spiritual concepts awkward because they have to make some effort, more effort than would be necessary for ordinary concepts. But if they acquire them, then, after death these concepts develop tremendous power, and it is this power alone that gives us the ability to recognize and comprehend the spiritual world. This is exceedingly important. People today feel uncomfortable if they have to acquire spiritual concepts. They like going to meetings where they are shown lantern slides or similar things and therefore do not have to think in a supersensible way; they like to see things in front of them, or at least hear lectures that tell them only about what they anyway always have before their eyes. People today shy away from making an effort to ascend to concepts that are more difficult here because they have no outer object since their objects are the facts that relate to the supersensible world. Over there, however, these concepts are the forces which actually bring the reality of the world to us.

Through spiritual ideas and concepts we gain the wisdom we need in order to have light over there where otherwise everything will be in darkness. What we attain here in the way of wisdom is light, spiritual light, over there. Wisdom is spiritual light. We need wisdom in order not to find ourselves in darkness over there. Not to acquire spiritual concepts is the best way of having no light over there. And when one has no light one moves away again from the sphere into which one ought to be casting light; one drifts back to earth and wanders about there as a focus of destruction. At most one might be used from time to time by a black magician in order to provide inspiration for certain quite specific functions, but also for destructive activities on the earth.

Wisdom, then, is something we need so that we can have light after death. But there is something else we need after death as well. The ability to detach the beings of the spiritual world in order to be able to confront them is not the only thing we need, for we also have to have the faculty of love. If we did not have this we would be unable to develop a proper relationship with the beings whom wisdom enables us to perceive. We need the faculty of love. However, the love engendered here on the earth is for the most part dependent on our physical body. This love is a feeling and it depends on the rhythm of breathing here in the physical world. It is not the kind of love that we can take with us into the spiritual world. It would be a complete illusion to believe that we can take this love over with us into the spiritual world, especially the kind of love we develop here at this particular time. What we do take over into the spiritual world is all the power of the love we acquire here in the physical world through perceiving this world with our senses, through living with this physical world.

This love is fired in us by the understanding we can develop for the physical world as we live here in it. If we take into our feeling life specifically those experiences we can have in viewing the world by means of modern science, this leads to love developing for when we are over on the other side.

Love, however, is something that can be either high or low depending on the realm in which it unfolds. If you pass through the gate of death and then have to remain in the earth realm as a focus of destruction, well, this is also due to having developed great love. The fact that you have to remain like this is a consequence of your having been bound up with purely naturalistic concepts, but then you employ this love for works of destruction; you love the work of destruction and are condemned to observe yourself loving the work of destruction.

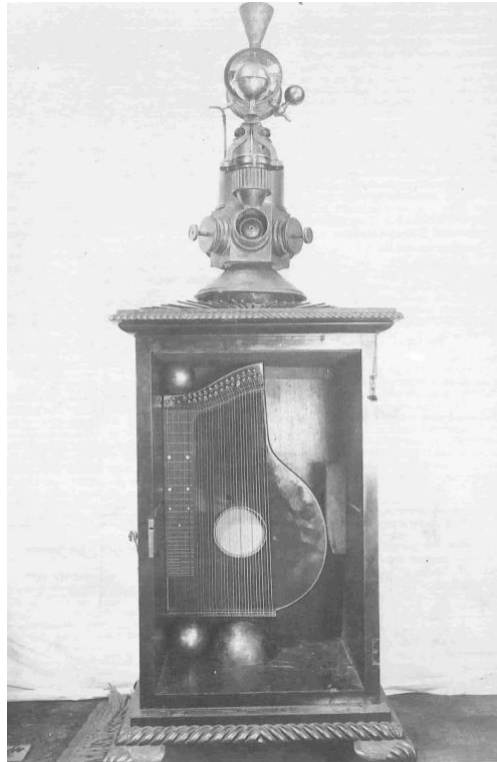

Love, then, is noble if you can rise up to higher worlds and love what you gain through spiritual concepts. We must on no account forget this: Love is lowly when it works in a lowly sphere, and it is noble and high and spiritual when it works in a higher, a spiritual sphere. This is the essential point to be remembered. If you remain unaware of this you will be unable to discern things in the right way.” – Rudolf Steiner Secret Brotherhoods and the Mystery of the Human Double P. 53

The technology that is being injected into people is not the technology that will realise the next phase of human beings' evolution, it is the tool of our enslavement, the dark counterpart to a moral technology that must now be developed, a technology which will in a certain way connect with human beings but in such a way that it will leave them free to develop organs of spiritual perception, the intended next phase of our evolution. Please at least consider that we are not just seeing an attempt at the physical enslavement of the human being but also the spiritual enslavement, the spiritual enslavement following the physical enslavement which is designed in such a way as to systematically reduce someones 'I' constitution, make them complete materialists though belief systems and medical devices and then bind their souls and intelligence to sub earthy virtual worlds! This does not have to manifest everywhere, we can and must create an alternative.

First, we have to understand that the heart is not mechanical but takes its orientation from the human being. Then people will also find the basic principles for external machines, making them such that they take their orientation from the human being. But in a science which has so much taken the easy way that the heart is described as if the human being had just a pump there in the blood circulation, in such a science people will feel no compunction to make machines where the human being has to take his orientation from the machine. All the problems in our social situation are due to this wrong view that is taken in science. And so one really has to understand that a proper way of thinking must first of all come upon people, for only then will it be possible to begin a proper social life. For as long as people think the heart is a pump, they will also not be able to relate to outer life in the right way. It is only when people know that the invisible human being is greater than his heart, that it is he who moves the heart, that they will also design their machines to be in accord with human nature. – Rudolf Steiner From Mammoths to Mediums, June 6 , 1923, GA 350

"In our time there are certain changes taking place in the heart, by which gradually a fifth chamber will develop. In this fifth chamber man will have a new organ which will allow him to control life forces in a different way than is possible at the moment." – Spiritual Science and Medicine, Lecture VIII, March 27, 1920, GA 312

Steiner spoke about artificial intelligence in 1917. He said that if this was to come about in a healthy way we would need to develop technology in which the cosmic forces of Pisces and Virgo act in co-operation.

Sympothetic attractor. An example of Keely's original work, referred to as mechanical occultism.

“By developing morality, the human being will be able to produce forces quite different from those which exist on the physical plane. Keely set his motor going with vibrations he called forth from his own organism. Vibrations such as these depend on man's moral nature. This is the first intimation of something which will form the technology of the future. In times to come we will possess machines which will only operate in response to forces coming from the human beings who are moral. Immoral persons will not be able to make them work. Purely mechanical mechanisms must change into moral mechanisms.” – Rudolf Steiner Das Christliche Mysterium. Rudolf Steiner Verlag, Dornach. GA 9

Saint Michael Vanquishing Satan, c. 1518

Notice how Michael does not kill the dragon, he has it under his feet. Is the technology we use under our feet, so to speak, or is it ever increasingly penetrating and manipulating our physical and non-physical bodies?

–THE FALL OF THE SPIRITS OF DARKNESS–

"During the last three or four centuries we have developed a magnificent natural science and a far-reaching technology, based on the most widely-distributed material to be found on earth. We have learnt to make out of Iron nearly all the most essential and important things produced by mankind in a materialistic age. In our locomotives, our factories, on all sides we see how we have built up this whole material civilisation on Iron, or on steel, which is only Iron transformed. And all the uses to which Iron is put are a symbolic indication of how we have built our whole life and outlook out of matter and want to go on doing so. But that is a downward-leading path. Man can rescue himself from its impending dangers only if he starts to spiritualise life in this very domain, if he penetrates through his environment to the spiritual; if he turns from the Iron which is used for making engines and looks up again to the meteoric Iron which showers down from the cosmos to the earth and is the outer material from which the power of Michael is forged. Men must come to see the great significance of the following words: "Here on earth, in this epoch of materialism, you have made use of Iron, in accordance with the insight gained from your observation of matter. Now, just as you must transform your vision of matter through the development of natural science into Spiritual Science, so must you rise from your former idea of Iron to a perception of meteoric Iron, the Iron of Michael's sword. Then healing will come from what you can make of it." This is the content of the aphorism:

O Man,
You mould it (Iron) to your service,
You reveal it (Iron) according to the value of its substance
In many of your works.
Yet it will bring you healing
Only when it reveals to you
The lofty power of its spirit.

That is, the lofty power of Michael, with the sword he has welded together in cosmic space out of meteoric Iron. Healing will come when our material civilisation proves capable of spiritualising the power of Iron into the power of Michael-Iron, which gives man self-consciousness in place of mere nature-consciousness.

You have seen that precisely the most important demand of our time, the Michael-demand, is implicit in this aphorism, this script that reveals itself in the astral light." – Rudolf Steiner

"Here we have one of the great problems which may arise when truths relating to the non-physical world are presented. Yet the answer always has to be that it is simply necessary to present these truths today. We must not forget that truths relating to the non-physical world cannot be received in the same frame of mind as truths relating to the physical world. To take them in we must slightly loosen the etheric and astral bodies; otherwise we shall only hear words. The state of mind has to be such — and with reference to the phenomena of the subjective inner life it merely is a state of mind — that for any real understanding of the things of the spirit one has to loosen the etheric and astral bodies a little. This loosening should only be a means of gaining understanding of the world of the spirit. It must not become an end in itself; this would be a very serious matter." – Rudolf Steiner

It is not really possible to be in the right frame of mind when reading from a computer connected to the internet especially if it is connected using wi-fi!
